

Your Free Consultation

One of the most important steps toward choosing the right dentist is your consultation.

During a consultation, you can meet and get to know the dentist and staff, get answers to your questions, and can begin to discuss the dental options available to you.

That's why we offer a free, no-obligation consultation for all prospective new patients to our practice. We believe that everyone should be as informed and as involved in their dental health choices as possible.

During your free consultation, you will have the opportunity to get to know our staff and our practice, so you can make an informed decision. We'll introduce you to our staff, show you our offices and equipment, and answer any questions you have about the procedures and other treatments we offer, and how they fit into your overall dental care plan.
